Not illustrated. 1844 Excerpt: .of England, the education of all the factory children, although the greater part, probably two-thirds, of their parents are Dissenters, and are in the habit of sending their children to their own schools. In fact, the aim, or at least the working of the bill, would have been to supersede the Dissenters schools; no wonder, therefore, that the Dissenters rose against it, almost to a man. It is needless to go into its details, now that it is abandoned; but the same parties are still active and influential, and it behoves all those who appreciate the inestimable worth of religious liberty, and true Christian charity (for toleration is an insolent word,) to be on their guard. That this caution is not needless, may be gathered from the suspicious circumstance that this Bill was aimed specially at the districts, which are the best educated, but in...
