

Domestic Medical Tourism in Southern India

By K. Gulam Dasthagir

LAP Lambert Academic Publishing Jul 2015, 2015. Taschenbuch. Book Condition: Neu. 220x150x5 mm. This item is printed on demand - Print on Demand Neuware - A critical examination of healthcare delivery system unfolds the fact that while 'Healthcare for All' has become the panacea of human development, inequalities in access to health services have become more pronounced than before. Concomitantly, higher quality and improved standards of medical care while enhancing life-chances of human species, have escalated the medical divide between the elite and the masses in acquiring quality health services due to skewed diffusion of medical infrastructure in diverse regions across space. Premised on the right based approach to capture the travel of villagers from rural and tribal areas to urban centers as an ethno strategy to access pertinent treatment, this book is a pioneering contribution to the discourse of medical sociology for redirecting the focus on the question of access to health care to different social categories especially the under privileged and the downtrodden in human society. Sociologist, medical professionals, health administrators, policy makers, researchers, donor agencies, development practitioner and so on would academically and professionally benefit from this book. 84 pp. Englisch.

READ ONLINE
[9.23 MB]

Reviews

Very beneficial to all of class of people. I am quite late in start reading this one, but better then never. You may like just how the writer create this publication.

-- Audra Klocko PhD

Thorough information! Its this type of great go through. It is amongst the most incredible publication i actually have read through. It is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding, once you begin to read the book.

-- Germaine Welch